

“The motto 'En cha huna, inspired by Dakelh (Carrier) Elders, directly translates to "he/she also lives", and is a reminder to respect all forms of life. It would be used when reminding someone, critical of another, that that person was also a living being, with a voice and viewpoint. The motto encapsulates much of the spirit of academic freedom, of respect for others, and the willingness to recognize different perspectives.”

Recognize institutional diversity – location, size, public/private, different mandates, etc.

Recognize diverse styles of contributing to the discussion.

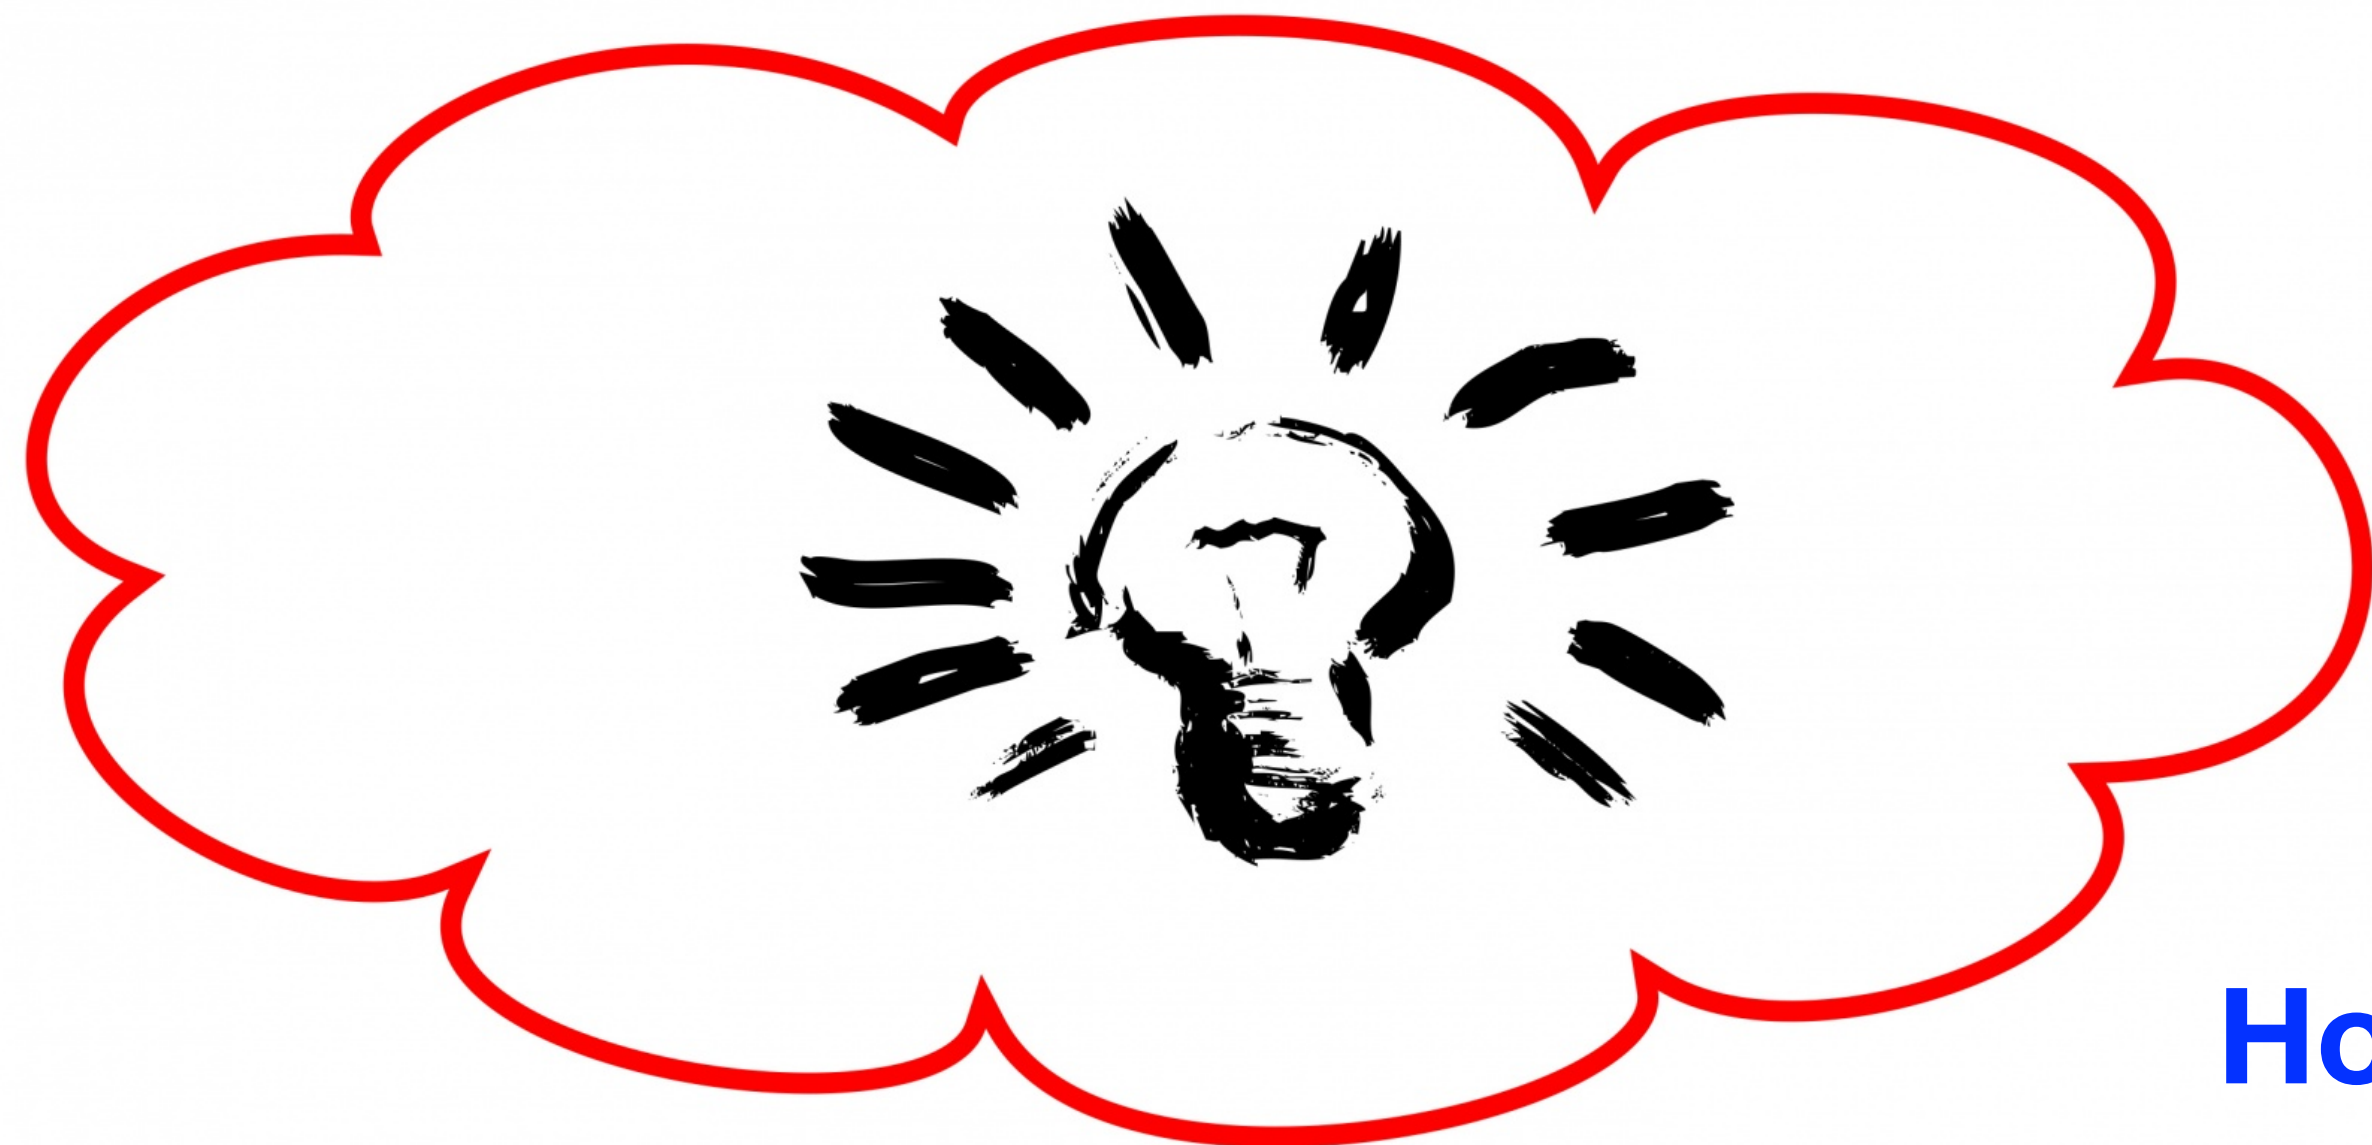

rawpixel

Recognize diverse levels of experience with both the articulation system and with the committee.

How? Provide a safe space for open discussion and learning at meetings.

How?

Provide opportunities for delegates to suggest meeting topics and guests.

How? Provide (and maintain, and use) year-round venues for discussion and mentoring.

Search for groups or messages

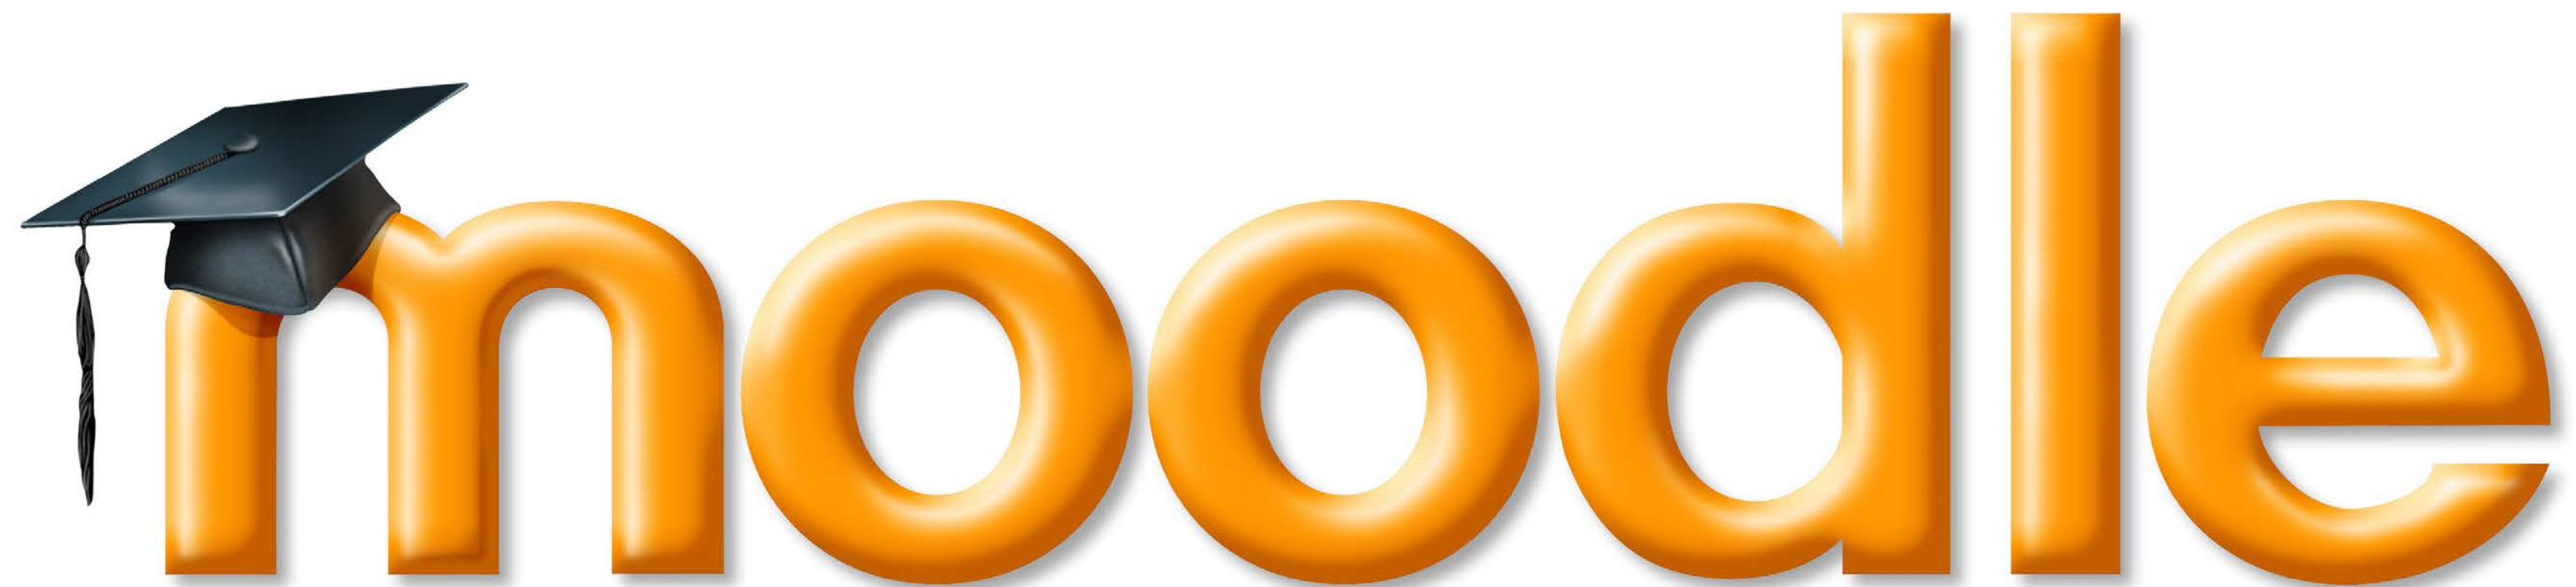

Groups

CREATE GROUP

My groups

★ Biology Articulation

This is the official Google Group for the Biology Articulation Committee operating within the BC Transfer System. For more information about the committee, please visit bccat.ca/articulation/committees.

How?

Provide opportunities for delegates to get to know each other.

“The Harvesters” by Pieter Bruegel the Elder – Public domain

KEEP CALM AND CARRY ON

How?

Maintain professional standards.

Work hard to run meetings that delegates want to attend because they trust that their voices will be heard.