WHAT IS "TRANSFER"?

In BC, you can "transfer" between post-secondary institutions. This is what happens when a student receives credit from one institution for education they completed at another institution.

Reach your educational goals and graduate.

If you get admitted to your new program, and if the courses you've taken are a good match, you can use the credits you've already earned towards your credential.

WHY TRANSFER?

Every year, thousands of students transfer between BC post-secondary institutions for many different reasons.

Whether or not students originally plan to transfer OR decide to transfer later on, flexible pathways can help them to achieve their post-secondary goals.
